RE. GMO Statement, National Bioengineered Food Disclosure Standard – Not BE Exempt.

Dear Customer,

We provide this statement to affirm that our products, listed in Annex I, are Food Systems containing starch obtained from genetically modified corn, as well as other ingredients of GM origin, and therefore will be considered as bioengineered food ingredients according to the National Bioengineered Food Disclosure Standard (NBFDS).

We believe that the manufacturing process for these products, are not highly refined and PCR testing of the finished product may provide ambiguous results, and therefore are not an ideal verification tool for quantifying detectable levels of genetically modified material.

For corn starch products, as well as others used in the manufacture of Food Systems that do not come from our identity preserved programs such as TrueTrace®, we cannot provide any assurance on the amount of genetically modified material that could potentially be present in our finished products.

The intent of this information is to support our customers efforts to develop and implement an appropriate labeling strategy for products containing Ingredion Mexico ingredients or additives.

In all respects, the ultimate decision on how to identify and label ingredients or additives remains with our customers. We urge you to review the relevant regulations carefully and to seek appropriate legal counsel as you determine the labeling requirements applicable to your products.

Thank you for your interest in Ingredion's products. Please contact us if we can be of any further assistance.

Sincerely,

Victor González
